SOME WORDS FROM ONES WHO WORSHIP AT BROADMAN

JACKIE FORCINA (born 1970) November 2007 my son shared with me his struggles with depression because his dad had not called him or seen him in five months. Later that night my son climbed out the window and ran away. I called the police and a friend went looking for my son. He was gone all night in 32-degree weather. I sat up most of the night in prayer saying, "Lord, you know where he is. Please put a hedge of protection around him." There was nothing I could do to keep him safe or bring him back. I had to rely on the Lord for his provisions and for His will to be done. The next morning members of the church spent hours looking for him. He was picked up on the Y Bridge by the police after a good Samaritan reported him on the bridge. I truly believe that God was present, protected him and used that lady who took time to call the police to get him home safely.
